

ESTON ŞEHİR MAHALLEM

The single unit typological variety developed for Eston settlement #1, is here extended to different residential typologies. Lake house, river house, yard house and town house are combined together in a settlement that tries to emphasize the natural morphology and value the relationship between them.

Lake houses at northern part of the plot define the boundary of an artificial lake, river house face the steep river banks that runs from north to south. Yard houses are aggregated in order to create public spaces where citizen can build neighbourhood life. Car routes and parking lots have been designed have been kept segregated from the public areas not to conflict with pedestrian paths and outdoor spaces.
